Job Description:

About the Project:

The project, funded by Anusandhan National Research Foundation (ANRF), focuses on developing an online SOH estimation framework for lithium-ion batteries of electric vehicles. Knowing the correct value of battery SOH is extremely important because it can predict the battery's remaining useful life, provide early warnings, and ensure its safety. This project aims to accurately estimate the SOH of an electric vehicle's battery cell and pack during real-world driving and charging, more specifically, whenever a drive cycle finishes or the vehicle is in charging conditions. The framework will be developed through performing a series of battery aging tests and capturing the important health indicators, which will be used to create the ROEM, using deep learning tools.
